Congress Gets Grain Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has sent Congress recommendations for an emergency program for feed grains for 1961. It is designed to halt the piling up of surpluses, to raise producer incomes and to cut government farm outlays.

The program would raise price supports for corn from $1.06 a bushel for the 1960 crop to $1.20 for this year's production. Other grains such as oats, barley and sorghum grains would go up correspondingly. Producers would be required to retire 20 per cent of their feed grain land to conservation uses to become eligible for the price supports.

The program also would seek to divert additional land from feed grains to soybeans by raising the price support for soybeans from $1.85 to $2.30 a bushel.

For many growers, soybeans at this price would bring more income than corn at the new $1.20 rate. There is need for more soybeans for vegetable oils but there is not a need for more feed grains. Farmers would get payments on the retired land.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who led in the development of the new program, told newsmen that it would be expected to raise gross incomes of typical feed grain feed producers from 10 to 15 per cent above last year.

But, he said, it would be expected to have no measurable effect on consumer prices of food produced from the feed grains.

Scientists Press Their Search for Missing Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists searched the skies today for an American balloon satellite hurled aloft on a major space mission.

The civilian space agency said late Thursday night that the 12-foot sphere probably had achieved orbit. Confirmation was awaited from watchful trackers.

The agency said the fourth stage of the Scout rocket, from which the inflatable sphere was ejected, went into orbit. This led to the estimation that the polka dotted satellite probably had achieved orbit.

Scientists were on patrol equipped with the electronic ears and eyes of radio and radar and with telescopic cameras. Nothing has been heard from the balloon since radio signals were picked up at 9:20 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Thursday as it zoomed over Woomera, Australia.

2 New Reports Show Further Economic Lag

Government Data Show Industrial Out, Income Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two new government reports show a further lag in the economy with industrial output dropping for the sixth straight month in January and incomes falling for the third month.

In one report, the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday that production at mines, factories and utilities dropped 1 per cent to a point 8 per cent below the record level achieved in January, 1960.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said personal income dropped by $600 million last month to an annual rate of $406.3 billion. This compared with last October's record rate of $409.7 billion.

The Board said a sharp cutback in auto assemblies, which has continued this month, was only partly offset by a better than seasonal pickup in steel.

The board's industrial production index dipped by one point in January to 102—only 2 per cent greater than the average for 1957.

Further declines in production of business equipment, clothing, furniture, auto parts and some nondurables were noted by the board. Petroleum output increased and appliance production held steady. There was little change in activity in mining and utility industries.

The Commerce Department report said most of the January income decline reflected a reduction in manufacturing payrolls.

Wage and salary payments in manufacturing dropped at the rate of $400 million a year last month, while marketing payrolls were down $300 million. Larger payrolls in government and service industries partly offset these declines.

The income of business and professional people dropped $700 million to the rate of $35.5 billion a year. There was little change in other types of income.

Meanwhile, the Small Business Administration announced a new move to help stimulate hard-pressed sections of the economy. SBA said size standards for businesses eligible for its aid are being increased by 25 per cent in areas having substantial unemployment.

What this means is that more and larger firms will be eligible for assistance.

President Kennedy said Wednesday night that this action would be taken.

In another step to spur the economy, the Veterans Administration said that, working overtime, it now expects to complete distribution of some $258.5 million in 1961 GI insurance dividend payments before the last week of March.

The announcement represents a speedup from the original completion date of June 30.

Normally the payments are spread out over a full year. Kennedy ordered immediate distribution to help stimulate the economy by increasing buying power among the more than 5 million veterans involved.

31 Pages Record 3-Minute Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate was not in session Wednesday. The House met for three minutes.

But the Congressional Record, official transcript of congressional doings for the day, runs 31 printed pages.

Six pages are devoted to business—the three minutes of proceedings, lists of members who have taken their oaths of office, bills introduced and communications.

Twenty-three pages are filled with undelivered speeches, newspaper articles and the like inserted by members.

Two pages are taken up by summaries of committee action and programs for today.

Raymond P. McDonald, 27, and Jerry W. Taylor, 21, of Detroit, were indicted on two counts each, of premeditated murder, and murder while perpetrating a robbery. Elmer Howard Walker, 30, of Taylor Center, Mich., a Detroit suburb, was the victim of the robbery-slaying on Sunday, Jan. 22.

Liberia Takes Leadership Seeking Accord in Congo

Ohio Legislators Home Explaining New Idle Pay Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's legislators were back home today mending fences and trying to explain the big jobless benefits battle to the home folks. Tactically, the Democrats appeared to have the tougher job.

A Republican-sponsored emergency bill to extend unemployment benefits up to 13 weeks is scheduled for a vote of the full Ohio House, probably next Wednesday.

Democrats generally don't like the bill because of other provisions which, they contend, make jobless benefits harder to get.

But they were wondering aloud Thursday as they wound up their seventh work week whether they will be able to explain to the long-time unemployed back home that they would rather vote against the bill.

Even if every one of the 84 Republican House members should vote for the bill, it will take the help of at least nine Democrats to muster the 93 votes needed to keep the emergency feature in bill.

Republican leaders seemed confident enough Democrats would join them to speed the extender measure to the Senate.

Top interest in the 30 bills submitted Thursday centered on measures to restore film censorship and require statewide high school examinations for diplomas.

Film censorship by the Ohio Department of Education died a half-dozen years ago under twin blows by the U. S. and Ohio supreme courts which held that existing film censorship laws were unconstitutional.

The new attempt to re-establish before-the-fact censorship of movies in Ohio is one of a series introduced since the courts knocked out the old law. It comes from Sen. Robert R. Shaw, R-Franklin.

It is aimed at lewd films, Shaw says, but would exempt from censorship newsreels and religious, scientific and educational movies.

The proposal for statewide high school examinations for prospective graduates is patterned after the New York State Regents' exams, according to Rep. Thomas L. Thomas, D-Summit, the bill's sponsor. He envisions such Ohio tests as replacements for college entrance exams.

At present, all six state universities are required to accept entrance applications from graduates of all accredited Ohio high schools. But a move is afoot to require entrance examinations even for Ohio youngsters.

Other measures introduced would:

Increase hunting and trapping license fees from $2 to $5 and provide fox bounties of $250.

Prohibit labor dispute injunctions before defendants are notified.

Exempt grain stored on farms from personal property taxes if the grain is to be fed to livestock on the same farm.

Require that the highway director be a registered engineer experienced in highway planning, construction, maintenance and repair.

Youth Held For Slaying Bank Teller

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—A teen-ager shot and knifed to death a woman teller and wounded two other bank employees he took as hostages in a $14,000 robbery Thursday night.

State Police seized Wilbert Rideau, 19-year-old Negro, as he was driving the small foreign car belonging to the slain woman, Julia Ferguson, 50, a widow.

Sheriff Henry Reid Jr. said Rideau admitted holding up the suburban bank. Reid added he would be charged later today with murder, kidnapping and armed robbery.

Rideau, whom the sheriff said had a juvenile record, told police he bought a .22-caliber pistol Wednesday. He was employed in the same shopping center where the South Gate branch of the Gulf National Bank is located. The bank stays open until 7 p. m. on Thursdays.

Rideau told officers he went into the bank and "I showed him (Jay H. Hickman, about 50, the branch manager) the gun and told him to call the two girls to the front of the bank and have them close the draperies."

Meanwhile, Dora McCain, 30, a teller, telephoned the main bank and said, "Something peculiar is going on." Then the connection was broken.

The bandit forced Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. McCain and Hickman into Mrs. Ferguson's car and drove off.

The youth told police he fired at the three when they jumped out of the car.

Police Hold Youth Carrying Weapons; Warning Is Issued

Apprehension of a juvenile carrying concealed weapons led Police Chief Robert Temple to issue a strong warning today against such tactics.

The 17-year-old was picked up last night by Patrolmen William Goff and Garold Goldsberry following a complaint. They said the youth was carrying a knife with a five-inch blade and a home made version to brass knuckles, complete with a sharpened and protruding point.

Chief Temple said in the future all groups of juveniles seen on the streets late at night will be searched by policemen. He strongly emphasized that carrying weapons will not be tolerated.

Another 17-year-old accompanying the youth was picked up by Patrolman Goldsberry and Goff, but was not carrying any weapons. They were apprehended near Pickaway and Watt Sts.

OFFICERS said they found the brass knuckles on the youth. They

Marines Lift Ban On Slap at Marines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leathernecks at Camp Lejeune now can buy a magazine with an article entitled "Harry Truman was Right When He Slammed the Marines."

The magazine is on sale at the North Carolina base today by order of Gen. David M. Shoup, commander of the Marine Corps.

Maj. Gen. Robert B. Luckey, Lejeune commander, banned sale of the March issue of the magazine Cavalier on the base because of the article.

Written by retired Marine Brig. Gen. William B. McKean, it disputed Marine history and said "The Marine Hymn" is not factual.

Missile Crane Mishap Probed

ROSWELL, N. M. (AP)—An official investigation was scheduled today into the accident at an Atlas missile launching site which took the lives of six men Thursday afternoon.

An official of the Corps of Engineers, which is supervising the construction of the intercontinental ballistic missile complex in the Roswell area, was to head the investigation board.

A huge crane toppled 172 feet to flaming destruction in the bottom of the concrete-lined pit in which the men were working. Nineteen toers were injured.

Six of the injured were treated and released from a hospital.

Today the cause of the accident had not been determined and there were conflicting reports as to what exactly happened.

Dazed survivors could provide little help in clearing the picture. They were working on steel framework along the sides of the deep pit, to be used as a launching site for the nation's Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile, when the crane toppled in on them.

"They yelled down and told us it was coming," said one of the survivors, L. D. Crumrine, 48, of (605 W. 6th) Amarillo, Tex. "I looked up, saw it moving backwards toward the hole. I got behind a column but the fire got me."

Gasoline tanks on the crane ruptured after the machine struck the steel work. Sparks or hot welding equipment ignited the gasoline and filled the 52-foot wide pit with flames.

One worker, H. R. Davis, told Deputy Sheriff Bill Smith he saw the back wheels of the crane going over the edge and jumped in the cab to try and brake it. He leaped to safety before the crane toppled into the hole.

Eleven militiamen were slain in a clash near the Las Villas Province town of Trinidad, and 300 militia wounded jammed a hospital elsewhere in so-called central Cuba, one source said Thursday.

U.S.-Russian OK Sought for Peace Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Liberia proposed today that the leaders of all political groups in the Congo meet with the U.N. Security Council and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in an effort to avert a threatened civil war.

Liberian Ambassador George Padmore, one of the two African members of the 11-nation council, laid before the council a suggestion made earlier in the week by Liberian President William Tubman. He proposed that the peace parley be held either at U.N. headquarters in the Congo or in a neighboring country.

Padmore spoke as his delegation continued working behind the scenes with representatives of the United Arab Republic and Ceylon, the other African and Asian members of the council, on a peace plan which they hoped might win the support of the Soviet Union and the United States.

Basically, the emergency section of the proposed resolution—1. Urged U. N. troops in the Congo to use force if necessary to prevent civil war;

2. Demanded Belgian and other non-U. N. foreign military personnel, mercenaries and political advisers leave the Congo immediately;

3. Called on all countries to prevent such personnel from going there, and

4. Called for an immediate and impartial investigation into Lumumba's death.

Some supporters of the African-Asian plan were counting on a united front of the nations from their two continents to bring the big powers into line. Other diplomats feared the Soviet Union would remain adamant in its opposition to U. N. action and veto the resolution.

From the Congo came a report that Congo President Joseph Kasavubu's new premier, Joseph Ileo, has begun negotiating with rival political leaders to broaden his new Leopoldville government into a coalition.

The 11-nation U.N. Conciliation Commission sent to the Congo by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld before Lumumba's death also submitted recommendations echoing the Asian-African draft resolution.

A long-range section urged that the Congolese Parliament — suspended last September after President Kasavubu fired Patrice Lumumba as premier — be convened immediately and that all Congolese armed units be reorganized and brought under discipline and control to keep them from interfering in politics.

One Water Leak Found Here Today

One of Circleville's mysterious water leaks was found today. Ervin Leist, utilities director, said the leak was found in a three-inch water line under new Route 23.

Leist said the line runs to the sewage plant near the old Ohio St. area. He said the break was just outside a large storm sewer running in that area.

The faulty part of the line will be abandoned for the present, Leist said.

The city has been losing about 100,000 gallons of water per day due to unfound leaks. Leist said his department is busy trying to find others which may exist.

Reports Say Castromen Suffer Heavy Losses

HAVANA (AP) — All-out battle against rebel forces in the Escambray Mountains reportedly is giving Fidel Castro's militiamen heavy casualties and indecisive results.

Eleven militiamen were slain in a clash near the Las Villas Province town of Trinidad, and 300 militia wounded jammed a hospital elsewhere in so-called central Cuba, one source said Thursday.

Jaycees Call For Full-Time Chamber Man

The Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce last night urged a full-time executive secretary for the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce and pledged to cooperate with the Chamber in obtaining one.

In a formal resolution, the Jaycees said, "the business and industrial community of Circleville is in dire need of cooperation and assistance from the citizens of the area."

The resolution said, "A full-time Chamber of Commerce executive secretary would greatly contribute to the welfare of the City of Circleville through expansion and improvement of business and commerce and by promoting and creating better industrial relations throughout the city."

Laurence Priest, Jaycee president, emphasized that the Jaycees wish to cooperate with the Chamber in the hopes that new industry can be attracted to the city. He said the Jaycees are back of the Chamber's efforts 100 per cent.

Woman Thief of $2 Million Gets 15-Year Jail Sentence

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP) — An Iowa banker's daughter, who embezzled $2 million from her bank and apparently lost much of it in market speculations, was sentenced to 15 years in prison today.

Mrs. Burnice Iverson Geiger, 58, smiling faintly as she entered the courtroom, was sentenced to serve five years on each of three counts of embezzlement. The sentences are to run consecutively.

U.S. District Judge Henry N. Graven also sentenced her to five years on each of the other 32 counts of a U.S. attorney's information to which she pleaded guilty last Jan. 30. Those sentences are to run concurrently with the 15 years. She will be eligible for parole after five years.

The matronly looking woman, cashier and director of the defunct Sheldon National Bank of nearby Sheldon, Iowa, occasionally dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief during her 20-minute appearance in court.

During the brief appearance, government and defense attorneys brought out that she spent huge sums of money in various ways. One of these was speculation on the "Board of Trade," where she lost about $1,000 a month in a period of nearly 30 years, the government said.

The embezzlement was discovered last Jan. 16 during a routine examination of her books at the Sheldon bank by federal examiners.

Her attorney, John Dunkle, said a prison term for Mrs. Geiger would serve neither for punishment nor rehabilitation nor as a deterrent for others.

Dunkle said that she had lived with her crime for 37 years and "this is punishment enough."

"If she has had one failing," Dunkle said, "it was her generosity. She helped others, took care of the sick and in one case she even extended sympathy to the wife of a person in prison—although this did not prove popular with the townspeople."

"She realizes how disappointed her fellow townspeople must be," Dunkle said. He said the defense asked no "mercy but only that she be returned to society under severe parole."

Dunkle said she wishes to help her husband, Wallace, "whose illness makes death imminent."

Geiger, who suffers from asthma and a World War II wound, was in court.

"Mrs. Geiger will have nothing after this is over," Dunkle said. "But she will try to make restitution by continuing to give what ever assistance needed to the authorities."

Maximum sentence facing the matronly woman was 175 years in prison and $175,000 in fines. The judge levied no fine.

put forward by Hammarskjold and the United States than a Soviet resolution already before the council demanding the dismissal of the secretary-general and an end to the U.N. Congo operation within a month.

But the commission, made up of nations which sent forces to the Congo, went further by calling for a summit meeting of Congolese leaders of all factions to agree on changes in government and suggested a federal system of loosely associated states—the aim of Kasavubu and Katanga President Moise Tshombe—rather than the strong central government demanded by Lumumba and his political heir, rebel Premier Antoine Gizenga.

The commission urged bringing outside groups into Ile's cabinet to make a government of national unity, freeing of all political prisoners and U. N. action to bar outside foreign military aid from reaching the warring Congolese factions.

As debate on the Congo crisis continued in the council chamber, Sudanese Delegate Obar Abdel Hamid Adyl indicated to the council that his government for the time being would prevent Communist airlift of arms to Gizenga's rebel forces in Stanleyville by refusing permission to make a necessary refueling stop in Khartoum.

Adyl said the Khartoum government considers any aid to the Congo should go only through the United Nations but he warned if progress was not made, Sudan would have to withdraw its support and its 394 troops from the U.N. Congo force.

CHS Students On Tour at Mead Plant

Students from the Circleville High School woods, metals, drawing and auto shop classes were guests of the Mead Corporation, Chillicothe, this week. Half of the group visited on Wednesday and the remainder toured the plant Thursday.

The papermaking process was explained briefly prior to the visitation. Further instruction was given continuously on the tour through the plant.

First stop was the yard where logs are stored after their arrival by truck and rail. Eighty-five percent of the wood comes from local sources, and most of it is hardwood.

Students saw the logs reduced to chips, and the chips fed into digesters which cook forty tons of wood under 125 lbs. pressure for three hours in a solution of caustic liquor. This breakdown from the chop to the pulp was explained and illustrated throughout the washing and treating areas until the Fourdrinier was reached. The Fourdrinier is a machine costing $3,700,000 which converts the pulp solution into a sheet of paper.

BLEACHING, sizing, water-marking and many other procedures were covered on the tour. Finally the shearing, labeling and wrapping areas for finished product were visited, and the group returned to their classes much more aware of the importance of another basic industry.

The paper process which started in ancient China is of such importance that an average of 425 lbs. of paper is used by every person in the world today, according to statistics.

It has been the practice of the CHS Industrial Arts Department to tour plants of various types at frequent intervals to give students an opportunity to see many industries which make the nation strong, and which promote a high standard of living. Plants visited in the past have included automotive fabrication, steel mills, a diesel engine plant, and construction jobs.

The trip to the Mead Corporation was arranged by Stanley Spring. Classes included those of Steve Brudzinski and Charles Thomas. George Hartman, Superintendent of Circleville Schools, also accompanied the students.

GE Boss Claims Price-Rig Hassle 'Damages Only GE'

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph J. Cordiner, chairman of General Electric Co., claims GE's admitted price-rigging has "damaged only GE."

Of utility and industrial customers that bought an estimated $1.2 billion in such equipment during the four years, Cordiner said:

"If we've unwittingly damaged any customer anywhere we wish to make an adjustment."

He said he strongly doubted any financial injury.

The GE boss talked to the New York Society of Security Analysts while the threat of multimillion-dollar single and triple damage suits against his firm still was having its effects in Wall Street.

About 1,085,000 shares of GE common stock changed hands in a wave of selling on the New York Stock Exchange in the week ended Wednesday. It was the most active issue each day. The price plunged $8.75 to $61.12 a share, a 1960-61 low, last Friday before rebounding strongly, then settling a bit.

GE was one of 29 corporations fined nearly $2 million last week in the nation's biggest antitrust case. Three GE officials and four executives of other firms drew 30-day jail sentences.

Cordiner made these main points in a 15-minute talk and an hour and a quarter of question-answering:

1. Twenty eight of 29 damage suits demanding $104 million from GE in 1953 in the so-called lamp case were settled for $1.4 million—a little under a penny and a half on the dollar.

2. In his own opinion, utility customers that sued GE and actually recovered damages might bring on themselves "one of the most penetrating rate investigations they ever experienced." He added: "I am not saying that every utility doesn't have to practice very great diligence in determining whether it was damaged."

3. Since mid-December, the GE chairman personally has called on 24 utility customers. "I've yet to encounter the first man who said 'Cordiner, we've got a case, we've been damaged.'"

4. GE plans to press a campaign of out-of-court talks with any company seeking an adjustment but to "resist any suit."

One of four traffic cases in Circleville Municipal Court was an accusation against a motorist for driving under the influence of intoxicants.

The charge was against Edward Mitchell, 26, Lockbourne Air Force Base. Arrested by the sheriff's department, he was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for six months.

Three drivers cited by the State Highway Patrol were:
Reuben Russell, 46, Mt. Sterling, and Ernest C. Smith, 33, Galion; each fined $20 and costs for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Dale E. Cooper, 30, Route 1, Londonderry, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Yiddish Musician
Finally Gets Paid
NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-eight years later, and minus about $345,000 he could have earned in royalties, Sholom Secunda will begin reaping a real profit from his Yiddish melody, "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen."

Secunda wrote the tune in 1932, copyrighted it a year later, then in 1937 sold the rights for $30 to a music publisher.

Under federal law, a copyright expires after 28 years and can be renewed only by the author or someone he designates.

Secunda, 66, Thursday signed a contract with Harms, Inc., music publisher which has handled the song for more than two decades. The tune, first popularized by the Andrews Sisters, earned about $3 million via 250,000 copies of sheet music and 2 1/2 million records.

OSU Planning Research On Business Tax Drain
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Prof. Donald F. Istvan of Ohio State University says legislators and businessmen are concerned that the tax drain on business profits is excessive to the point of harming the future growth of the economy.

To try to determine to what degree this might be so, the university's department of accounting is undertaking a research project sponsored by the General Electric Foundation through the OSU Development Fund. The project is headed by Prof. Istvan, Kenneth S. Johnston and W. E. Dickerson.

plunged $8.75 to $61.12 a share, a 1960-61 low, last Friday before rebounding strongly, then settling a bit.

GE was one of 29 corporations fined nearly $2 million last week in the nation's biggest antitrust case. Three GE officials and four executives of other firms drew 30-day jail sentences.

Cordiner made these main points in a 15-minute talk and an hour and a quarter of question-answering:

1. Twenty eight of 29 damage suits demanding $104 million from GE in 1953 in the so-called lamp case were settled for $1.4 million—a little under a penny and a half on the dollar.

2. In his own opinion, utility customers that sued GE and actually recovered damages might bring on themselves "one of the most penetrating rate investigations they ever experienced." He added: "I am not saying that every utility doesn't have to practice very great diligence in determining whether it was damaged."

3. Since mid-December, the GE chairman personally has called on 24 utility customers. "I've yet to encounter the first man who said 'Cordiner, we've got a case, we've been damaged.'"

4. GE plans to press a campaign of out-of-court talks with any company seeking an adjustment but to "resist any suit."

One of four traffic cases in Circleville Municipal Court was an accusation against a motorist for driving under the influence of intoxicants.

The charge was against Edward Mitchell, 26, Lockbourne Air Force Base. Arrested by the sheriff's department, he was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for six months.

Three drivers cited by the State Highway Patrol were:
Reuben Russell, 46, Mt. Sterling, and Ernest C. Smith, 33, Galion; each fined $20 and costs for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Dale E. Cooper, 30, Route 1, Londonderry, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Yiddish Musician
Finally Gets Paid
NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-eight years later, and minus about $345,000 he could have earned in royalties, Sholom Secunda will begin reaping a real profit from his Yiddish melody, "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen."

Secunda wrote the tune in 1932, copyrighted it a year later, then in 1937 sold the rights for $30 to a music publisher.

Under federal law, a copyright expires after 28 years and can be renewed only by the author or someone he designates.

Secunda, 66, Thursday signed a contract with Harms, Inc., music publisher which has handled the song for more than two decades. The tune, first popularized by the Andrews Sisters, earned about $3 million via 250,000 copies of sheet music and 2 1/2 million records.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Prof. Donald F. Istvan of Ohio State University says legislators and businessmen are concerned that the tax drain on business profits is excessive to the point of harming the future growth of the economy.

To try to determine to what degree this might be so, the university's department of accounting is undertaking a research project sponsored by the General Electric Foundation through the OSU Development Fund. The project is headed by Prof. Istvan, Kenneth S. Johnston and W. E. Dickerson.

'Nice' Faces, Voices of TV Newsmen Chided by Hagerty

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Radio and television news places "too much emphasis on well-modulated voices and nice looking faces, according to James C. Hagerty, former White House press secretary.

Hagerty, now a vice president for the American Broadcasting Co., said in a speech Thursday night:

"These voices and these faces—laying the reports gathered by the trained reporters of wire service facilities. They seldom—if ever—leave the radio or television station to cover the news. . . ." He added:

"I have a feeling that radio and television networks and stations have not done as good a job as both can do in presenting the news to the American people."

Hagerty spoke before 200 persons at the Elyria Country Club at a dinner celebrating the 75th anniversary of the discovery of commercial aluminum. In February 1886, Charles Martin Hall discovered at nearby Oberlin a way to extract aluminum from ore.

Hagerty said reporters for radio and TV must be developed and trained to become experts in their field.

From his own experience as former President Eisenhower's aide, Hagerty told the audience:

"There are some radio and television voices in our capital city who . . . never attended a presidential news conference in the eight years I was at the White House—to say nothing of the twice daily conferences I was holding to report on important decision of the President. . . . Yet every day these voices report on the news from Washington and give the impression that they have personal knowledge of these events. . . ."

As ABC vice president in charge of news, special services and public affairs Hagerty said he wants the network to have reporters on news beats such as State Department, Senate and House, and the White House. "Not just a single individual who can commentate nicely on the news—but who can't possibly cover it," he continued.

Looking to the future, Hagerty predicted that in about five years "world-wide instantaneous live television will be operation actuality—courtesy of the satellites." He added:

"As Americans we must raise a crop of reporters—men and women who can fluently speak the language of the area they will be covering. We Americans must meet the worldwide news competition we are going to encounter and, believe me, we will be behind a big, black 8 ball if we do not have the personnel in news who can speak the languages of the world."

One of the first American automobiles was invented in 1893 by Elwood Haynes of Kokomo, Ind.

Finest Gourmet Dishes Now Available in 'Mylar' Bags

There are some fascinating uses for DuPont's "Mylar", made here in Circleville.

Perhaps one of the most interesting is the use of the versatile polyester film in bringing the finest gourmet dishes to the dining room of the average home.

The current issue of Du Pont Magazine gives a rundown on this new use of "Mylar". Here's what the article says:

Even if your culinary skills are limited to boiling water, don't despair. Some day soon you may still win a reputation as a master chef, if the nation's food packers have their way.

When your 12 dinner guests take on a lean and hungry look, you'll blithely hand them a menu. "Would you like to order now," you ask.

THE replies are derisive, but you persist. "All right," says one guest, "Beef stroganoff." Another: "Chicken a la king." "Lobster newburg." "Veal scallopini marsala."

And then, says Harve Hearl, developer of new prepared foods for Armour & Co., you disappear into the kitchen. Out of your freezer you extract frozen, food-laden pouches of "Mylar" polyester film, coated with, say "Alathon" polyethylene resin. Drop them into boiling water.

"At the right moment, you take the pouches out of the water, slit them open and put their contents onto plates. Fifteen minutes after post-time, your guests are enjoying fancy soups and bisques by famous broth cooks, entrees by master chefs, vegetables to delight an epicure."

Is this too visionary? Not at all, says Hearl, who has performed the feat dozens of times for groups of 20 to 50. His exploits with "Mylar" have won kudos from food editors and the New Yorker magazine alike.

Already, too, some 15 gourmet recipes like those photographed above are enlivening the menus of selected restaurants and hotel dining rooms across the nation.

One Chicago restaurant, The Village Pump, features an entire menu of Armour's "Continental Cuisine" dinners ranging from $2.95 to $4.95. And a Deerfield, Ill., firm, Minit - Dinner, Inc., is supplying restaurants and industrial in-plant cafeterias with dinners and casseroles cooked electronically in pouches by a device called Radar Range.

Boy Robs Trashman Of $6,000 in Cash

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old Mentor youth has admitted stealing $6,000 in cash and $15,000 in U. S. savings bonds that a 69-year-old rubbish collector had hidden in a mattress at his home. Edwin Sjo, chief lake county deputy sheriff, said Thursday.

The youth said a 15-year-old boy helped him in the burglary last December at the home of Michael J. Nolan in Concord Township. The 15-year-old is now a patient in the Apple Creek State Mental Hospital, Sjo said.

The 19-year-old youth, not yet charged, was quoted by Sjo as saying he did not know that Nolan had such a large amount of cash on hand, but turned it up in looting the house after breaking in through a window. Sjo said the youth told him he had given all of the money to his girl friend.

family cooks. Today, 43 packers are putting up 107 separate products in such pouches, beginning with asparagus hollandaise and winding up with Yankee pot roast.

The idea of preparing choice entrees with no more fuss than boiling a little water has intrigued the food industry for some years.

YOU don't have to be a genius to see its appeal," a food expert told us. "Imagine: each family member can be eating a different entree; and Papa doesn't have to make breakfast decisions about dinner; he can decide what he feels like eating after he gets home."

But developing a suitable package took work. First of all, food men knew, a suitable cook-in pouch had to be tough enough to take both freezing and boiling. It had to lock in flavor, and be moisture- and grease-resistant. It could not react chemically with foods, but it had to heat seal and take in well. The list seemed endless.

Answers began to come when Du Pont introduced "Mylar" in commercial quantities here in 1954. The toughest plastic film available, it shrugs off chemicals, temperature extremes; takes ink; doesn't puncture.

Now, after six years of work by converters who print and coat "Mylar" and make pouches, the problems are pretty well solved. The heat-in-the-bag business is on the boil.

For U. S. restaurants, cafeterias and hotel dining rooms, serving some 24 million people a day, the cook-in pouch seems a natural.

As Harve Hearl puts it, "Into pouches we can put the highest quality food, freeze it and keep its taste secure. We can tremendously broaden the menus of even the smallest restaurants; of in-plant cafeterias and railroad dining cars; and in larger establishments, we can add dishes comparable to the chef's specialty."

"A major factor is savings. Nothing is heated until it's ordered. There's no loss in cleaning and trimming staples and meats, because there's no waste. Portions are consistent. Equipment costs are minimal."

In some cases, food preparation savings of up to 50 per cent can result from heat-in-the-bag cooking, new Du Pont studies show.

Citing peas, a packer who has studied the field says: "The apparent cost of one diner's portion of frozen peas may be as little as three cents. But the hidden costs of labor and handling, of inaccuracy in portioning, of waste, can zoom the price to 10 cents."

"Put the same quantity of peas into pouches," he continues, "and the cost is six cents. Period. There's no labor, cleaning or seasoning. All you do is heat."

AS ANOTHER food packer told us, "What it means is that the time-consuming chore of preparing foods is shifted to the specially equipped plants of packers. Restaurants may find that their most valuable piece of equipment is the French fryer, filled with water instead of fat."

Pouches of "Mylar" were first used for this purpose in 1956 when Luchow's Restaurant of New York marketed 12 gourmet products based on recipes of famous world eating places.

Seabrook Farms took over the Luchow line in 1958, and has expanded it to one of the largest, with dishes ranging from chicken ken cacciatore to lentil soup and delmonico potatoes.

Eastern seafood is popular. For example, Red L Foods, Great Neck, L. I., recently bolstered its established line with heat-in-the-bag items including lobster newburg and shrimp creole. "We made this decision," says Steve Patrice, vice president who heads sales, "because test marketing results in New York and New England were highly encouraging."

Katanga Chief Says Gizenga Regime Illegal

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga said today Communist recognition of Antoine Gizenga's government in Stanleyville "promises to create a Korean situation in the Congo."

"I think, however, the free world is theoretically capable of refusing to get involved on such a basis, which would only profit the Communists," he said.

Tshombe was asked his reaction to the recognition of the Gizenga and Stanleyville government.

"This recognition is absolutely illegal. Even in the view adopted until now by the United Nations, the only legal government for all the territories of the former Belgian Congo is the of President (Joseph) Kasavubu. The United Nations and the free world recognize that President Kasavubu legally dismissed Lumumba and his ministers under the terms of the Congo constitution. The Communist-bloc attitude proves only that Russia and her satellites are only appealing to a pretended legality because it serves their interests. They will trample this under foot whenever it has ceased to serve them," he replied.

2 Ohio Amendments Now in Constitution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy, in an opinion for the Senate, has ruled that two amendments adopted by voters in 1959 are now valid parts of the constitution. One allows an increase in appellate court judges, and the other removes limitations on sale of water and sewage services outside corporate limits. Failure of legislative clerks to follow certain technical requirements in placing the proposals on the ballots prompted the question as to their validity.

wise pleased with the two million dollars of annual business generated by his pouch dishes.

In fact, he says, "Our firm's home economist just returned from several months abroad studying at gourmet schools in France. Object: to develop new and famous recipes to diversify the beef, ham and turkey dishes we now feature."

In St. Louis, P. M. Stamper Co., producer of the Banquet lines, has been using pouches of "Mylar" for heat-in-the-bag dishes of sliced beef, turkey, and chicken with gravy. The Kitchens of Sara Lee, Chicago, have won a large following for "Chicken Sara Lee" prepared in this form.

Stouffer's Frozen Foods, Cleveland, has an unusual one: a pouch of lemon sauce to eat with the firm's plantation cake. And Swift & Co., Chicago, is refrigerating rather than freezing cook-in pouch dishes ranging from beef and barbecue sauce to frankfurters.

Often, heat-in-the-bag features regional foods. In the Southwest, Patio Foods, San Antonio, is packing hot tamales. So is X-LNT, a West Coast Spanish food company.

IN THE Northwest, the San Juan Fishing and Packing Co. has been selling two-in-a-carton individual portion of gourmet dishes like halibut a la king, crab newburg and curried shrimp.

At the same time, North Pacific Canners and Packers is packing corn-on-the-cob, while Chet's Famous Foods is preparing traditional turkey and beef dishes in handsomely printed pouches.

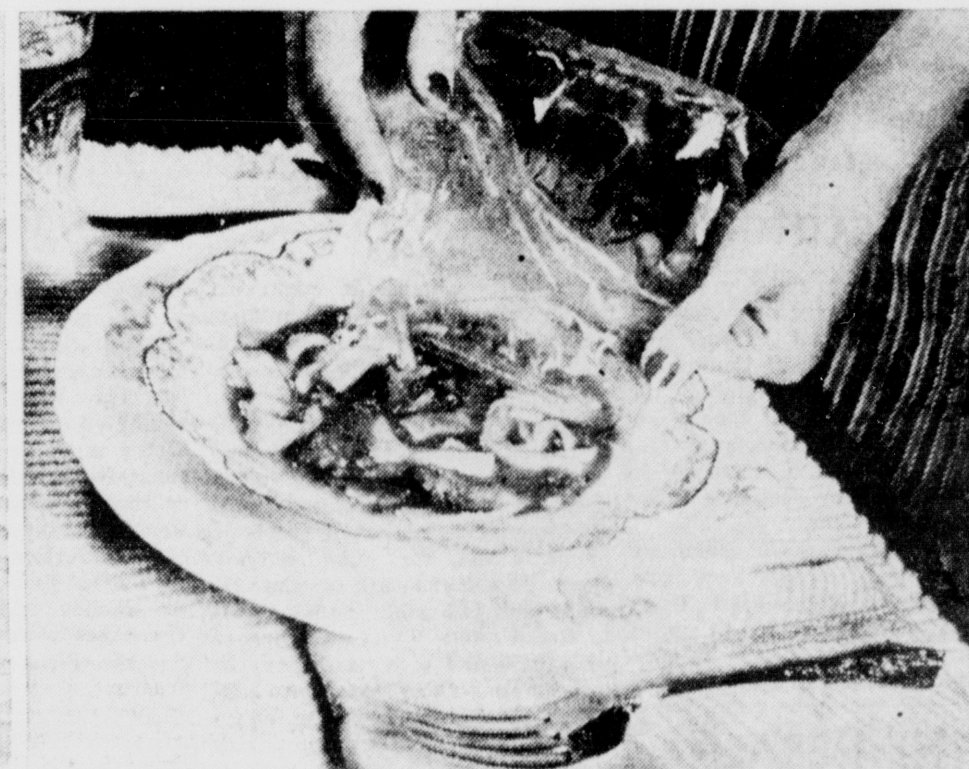

What's the outlook in the industry? "Very promising," says Du Pont's converter sales manager, Ralph C. Krueger, who points to the fact that heat-in-the-bag has grown in six years from zero to some 70 million food servings last year. "And many industry observers predict a doubling of the present rate every year for the next five."

Problems still exist, but if a recent Du Pont study of 20,000 consumers is any yardstick, the market omens are good. For surveyors found that people who had tried heat-in-the-bag cooking generally liked it, whether they were young-marrieds, middle-aged or elderly. Almost all cited "ease and convenience," "taste and flavor" and "easy to clean up afterward" as key factors.

More than that, Armour's Harve Hearl points out, "The average family sticks pretty much to about eight different entrees. In time, the industry can broaden their choice to 15 or 20. Of course," he adds with a twinkle in his eye, "it's only fair to state that the food won't taste like the dishes your mother used to make — not unless your mother was a master chef, that is."

GOURMET COOKERY — At left, housewife merely drops "Mylar" food pouch in boiling water. At right, ready to serve, the food pouch is opened, the edges stay cool, but the food is hot, ready for garnish.

Racing Commission Ruling Is Given

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy ruled today that Gov. Michael V. DiSalle must appoint someone other than Harry Hoffheimer of Cincinnati to the state racing commission.

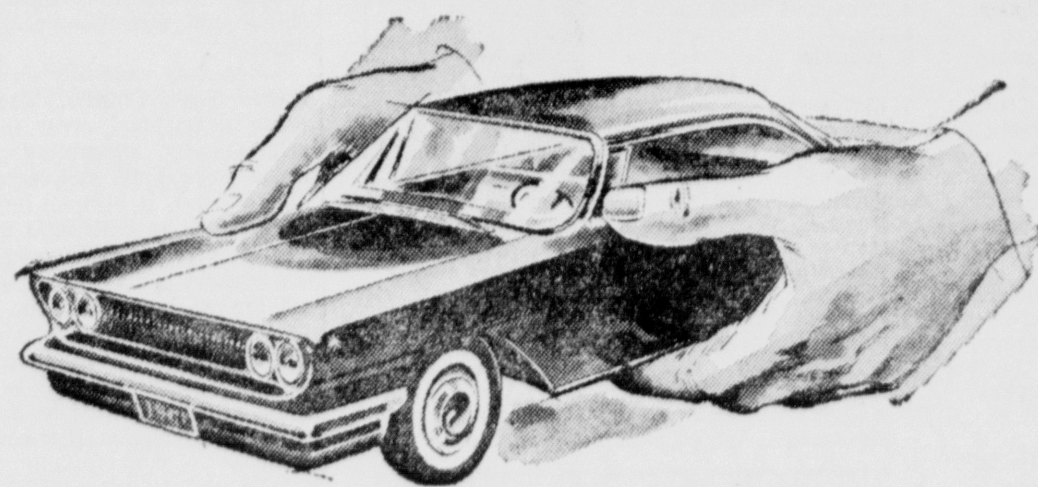

Hoffheimer, a Democrat, has served as chairman of the commission, although without received approval of the Senate. DiSalle had resubmitted his name last year, but a controversy over passes to Ohio tracks stalled confirmation.

The attorney general gave the opinion to the current Senate to which DiSalle had resubmitted the reappointment, saying "the governor is required (by law) to appoint an individual other than the one originally appointed to the vacancy." He said Hoffheimer's service on the commission since last Nov. 29 is legal as a "de facto" officer until the governor appoints another person.

Senator Says Tax Cut May Be Needed in U.S.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., says personal income taxes should be cut by 3 to 4 per cent if unemployment continues high in May. He told interviewers that if the recession continues to midsummer, then a public works program should be started and corporation taxes should be cut.

Replacement Rates Not Realistic

A House committee has discovered after an inventory that the U. S. government has real and personal property assets worth $276 billion. This is almost in balance with the liabilities (public debt) of the government which are $286 billion.

The inventory valuation may be an under-estimate. For example the White House and its 18-acre site are listed at $1 million while the 16,000-acre U. S. Military Academy at West Point is inventoried at only $17 million. Replacement cost is an estimated $141 million.

Replacement rates are not realistic because the investment in buildings especially is not of much use to anybody except the government. But Uncle Sam does own or control 779 million acres of real estate some of it in high priced areas. Perhaps if he tried he could dispose of some of this vast acreage and apply the proceeds to reduction of the debt.

Some Improvements Suggested

NE WYORK (AP)—As worlds go, this one is certainly the best we know.

But like all good things, it could stand a few improvements.

Here are a few suggestions that might make a better world for most of us:

Elastic clothes for dieters, so that, whether they gained or lost 25 pounds in a year, they could still wear the same suits and dresses — and feel comfortable and look neat.

A Soviet premier with chronic laryngitis.

A tranquilizing drug which, sprayed into the air, would blow around the earth and calm all mankind—not just those in mental institutions.

Packages that would fall apart when you pushed a button on them. Today most packages you get have to be opened with a crowbar.

A good hour-and-a-half movie. Most films now are epics that last so long you can't really enjoy them unless you bring along a box lunch.

A government subsidized program for baby sitters. It costs so much to hire baby sitters now that many young couples can hardly ever afford an evening out.

A government subsidized program to find a way to make middle-aged people enjoy life more. Many of them seem to have lost the ability to have fun.

A government subsidized program to help income tax payers. If there is a really depressed class in America, this is it!

False teeth you could wear and still have a genuine feeling.

A memory-losing pill to cause wives to forget their long sense of wrong.

A $3.50 hotel room with a good view.

The return of the old-time free lunch in bars and taverns.

Cocoons in which you could wrap a child at 12 and remove him at 20—thus escaping all the problems of having to cope with teenagers.

A new and tasty form of food which positively couldn't be canned or frozen, and had to be cooked indoors on a stove.

Instant sunshine.

An electronic page turner. Millions of people might start to read books again if they didn't have to go to all the trouble of turning the pages by hand.

A friendly new insect that would eat crabs, fight mosquitoes on sight, and sing at night like a lark.

A federal law making it illegal for adolescent girls to squeal.

An automatic wife listener. It would record you wife's advice at breakfast, and you could play it back later at the office—when you had nothing more important to do.

An alarm clock radio that would not only wake a man up, but also shave, bathe and dress him—and remember to put money in his pocket.

An underwater TV Western series in which cowboys would ride on dolphins to round up the sea cows. We are all getting a little weary of dry land Western horse operas.

An instant cure for the common cold, the common hangover and the common bore.

All Dictators Are Bad

It is possible to develop prejudices about anybody or anything. Frankly, 44 years of personal, active experience with Communist movements have convinced me that I do not like their type of society. The Communist program, since the London Conference in 1903, has been the conquest of the world for Marxism.

In this country there are many who are not Marxists but who have no bias on the subject. Their attitude might be summed up in the phrase that an idea is an idea that the test of the usefulness of an idea is whether it works out empirically that Communism seems to be successful in some countries. They themselves do not prefer it.

This is a pragmatic point of view which is more generally held than one assumes. To such, the judgment on Castro is unrelated to his Communist affiliation; it is whether he is good for Cuba or not. Some do not even ask whether his movement is harmful or beneficial to the United States because their criterion of virtue does not include benefits to their own country. Their yardstick is limited to a doctrinaire antipathy to imperialism and a repugnance to capitalism.

Their intellectual and spiritual dishonesty is that they continue to pose as patriotic capitalists when, as a matter of fact, they have become so completely absorbed by the uprisings throughout the world that any weak and backward people is ipso facto preferable to a strong and progressive nation.

It was this unhistorical attitude toward the underdog which destroyed the British and Dutch Empires. Brought civil war to France in Algeria and disrupted the Congo. But its greatest sin has been its strengthening of Soviet Russia.

Many who have been violently anti-imperialist are not Communists. They reject the label. They would go to war for the United States and give their lives. Unfortunately, they do not have the time or the patience to do the homework necessary to study the strategy and tactics of Communism as developed by Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev and their associates. This takes work and lazy men accept the dicta of self-proclaimed experts.

Thus, Castro has built for himself something of a defensive fortress in the United States. Their latest slogan is that while they disapprove of his methods, they feel that his purposes are right and that ultimately he will raise the living standards of the Cuban people, provide better schools, health, etc.

Such Americans, however, are opposed to Trujillo who calls himself the Benefactor of the Dominican Republic and who is unquestionably a dictator. Trujillo has provided clean water, clean streets, better living standards but he runs the show as he chooses and puts down opposition with an iron hand. Trujillo is even accused of having arranged for assassination of other Latin American officials.

Americans generally do not like Castro or Trujillo. The latter made a frightful error in public relations by attempting to purchase journalistic and other favorable opinion. It became impossible to speak even with mild praise of Trujillo's clean water without being suspect of having accepted his shilling. So he has no one to say that taken all in all, one dictator is no better than another and that if we are opposed to dictators and favor elections and government by choice, that could be a point of view universally applied.

In Latin America, as in other parts of the world, no one has yet been able to distinguish between a good dictator and a bad one. President Roosevelt pretended that he knew the difference when he preferred Joe Stalin to Adolf Hitler, but history will not join him in the distinction, for even Khrushchev disclosed what a very foul egg Stalin was.

When a man seizes power and rules by his own might whether one calls him Genghis Khan, Charles Martel, Napoleon, Hitler, Castro or Trujillo, he is violently antagonistic to our way of life and if we have a political philosophy at all, we should oppose him with all we have.

Those who have no philosophy

A BUS LINE BOSS is unlikely to forget the morning a burly fellow named Michael applied for a job as a driver. "Take the wheel of that bus in the yard and park it inside the shed," ordered the boss.

"Mike" cheerfully climbed aboard, turned the ignition key and stepped all the way down on the accelerator. The bus whammed into the shed at 60 miles an hour, scattering personnel and equipment. He desperately reversed the lever and shot out backward just as fast. Three times he careened in and out of the shed, then finally brought the bus to a halt.

"What's the matter with you?" screamed the boss. "I told you just to put the bus in the shed."

"I had her in three times," growled "Mike." "Why didn't one of you apes close the door?"

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fish is first in many supermarkets and neighborhood groceries this weekend, reflecting the start of Lent.

Halibut steak is the special in New England, the New York metropolitan area and the Midwest, while other favorites include scallops, shrimp, haddock filet, smelts and frozen fish sticks.

Seafood prices are reported 8.5 per cent higher than a year ago, partly because unusually cold weather is keeping fishing boats locked in ice at some ports. Eggs are 12 to 16 cents a dozen more expensive, with increases of 2 to 4 cents a dozen this week adding to the spread. Eggs were down 2 cents in the Far West, however.

Another Lenten staple, rice, is in plentiful supply.

Frying chickens and top or bottom roasts of beef are popular items. Sirloin steak is offered in a few places, reflecting lower prices, while ribs of beef and pork chops are more costly in scattered sections.

Potatoes head the outstanding bargain list among fresh vegetables.

Other best buys include Florida celery, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, endive, escarole, lettuce, peppers, radishes, rhubarb, spinach, medium yellow onions, turnips and vine-ripened tomatoes. Good buys are artichokes, bunched beets, carrots, various cooking greens, parsley, mushrooms, peas and squash.

Best bets among fruits are Macintosh and Cortland apples, Florida temple oranges, California navel oranges, tangerines, grapefruit and pineapples. Good buys are Delicious apples, avocados, limes and small pears.

Textile Industry Is Key To Massachusetts Progress

EDITORS' NOTE: The textile industry is the key to unemployment in Massachusetts. In the following article, last of a series covering a tour of the depressed labor areas of the country, Nate Polowetzky, AP's assistant general business editor, tells the New England story.

By NATE POLOWETZKY
BOSTON (AP)—In tracing the growth and development of depressed areas in Massachusetts, all roads ultimately lead back to one point—the textile industry.

In dozens of communities along the rivers and canals of the bay state, mills that once clothed the nation and provided the bread for tens of thousands of families now stand idle, or have been abandoned, pulled down or converted into warehouses.

The looms are quiet and thousands of textile workers are out of jobs.

While other industries are contributing to the state's current over-all unemployment it is the textile industry, primarily, which has provided chronic joblessness.

Despite the significant growth of new industries, creating new jobs, the out of work textile men, especially the elderly among them, face the prospect of continued unemployment.

Prof. William H. Miernyk, Northeastern University economist and one of the recognized authorities on depressed areas and the New England textile industry says: "A national upswing in the economy will not solve the problem. Some of these people face the tragedy of never going back to work—the older ones particularly."

The unemployment picture in Massachusetts as a whole, however, is a rosy one, compared with such hard hit "depressed areas" states as Michigan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Latest figures show that 148,734 persons were drawing unemployment benefits in the week ended Jan. 28. Thousands of others have exhausted their benefits and one source estimated that 180,000 persons in all were unemployed last month.

There may be more "hidden unemployed." Those people, especially textile workers, who have stopped seeking jobs through hopelessness and are now being taken care of by their children's earnings.

All in all, Massachusetts had an unemployment rate of between 7 and 8 per cent last month, compared with the nationwide figure of some 7 per cent.

(But in Detroit, alone, almost as many persons are out of work as in the entire state of Massachusetts).

Low unemployment in the greater Boston area (comprising nearly half of the state's labor force), calculated at only 4 per cent as of last November, has kept the total unemployment figure down.

It is outside the Boston area, in sections which were once predominately textile, that the hard hit chronic unemployment places are found—with the out of work rate going up to 12 per cent in some communities.

These areas have had relatively high unemployment for at least a decade.

The decline in textiles in Massachusetts and New England began in the 1920s when big plants began moving to the cheaper Southern labor market. This flight to new locations continued in the '30s together with plant liquidations. The war halted the decline but relocation and liquidations began again in the '50s and are still continuing.

Nationwide textile employment in 1948 (a yearly average) was 1,368,000; in December of 1960 it was 915,700. Textile employment in New England in December 1948, was 274,000. In the same month last year it was 108,300.

Thousands of jobs have been permanently eliminated by automation and countless others lost in the liquidation of firms under the tremendous impact of foreign imports.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle over words—is this a recession or something else?—is topped today by another question:

Whether it's a recession or a slowdown or a mild adjustment, what caused it anyway?

Industry started out at a fast clip in 1960. Predictions of still better days ahead came at an even faster clip from many corporation presidents and business economists. Then something happened.

President Kennedy calls that something a recession and says it must be counteracted fast or it might grow into that uglier word, depression.

Many business executives insist that the present slowdown is merely an adjustment. That is, business is whittling down stocks that were built up too fast, or waiting for demand to grow up to the new capacity which had been added at a fast clip. Some add that the less said about the current problems the quicker mended.

But a few economists think the turn more fundamental. They call the peak reached in 1960 the final spurt of the postwar boom, which had been slowed down only temporarily by three previous recessions. They say the nature of today's economy is different and business must tackle new problems in new ways.

Whichever view is right, the actual turn of events is usually credited to these immediate factors:

1. Changing inventory policies. These, in fact, are widely credited with causing both the ups and the downs which have marked industrial production over the last two years.

The big upward spurt in early 1959 was due in large part to the building up of stocks in anticipation of a steel strike. That shut-down in the summer and early fall of 1959 depleted some stocks and cut industrial output. Stetlement of the labor trouble sent many business firms on a spree of buying for inventory that carried into the early months of 1960 and made the economy look healthier than it actually was.

Then overstocked firms stopped ordering altogether. Others began ordering on a hand-to-mouth basis. Industrial production in many basic fields started a long descent in the spring of 1960. And with it came increasing unemployment.

2. A drop in business spending for new plant and equipment. Overcapacity in many lines was blamed. Also some firms shelved plans when new orders dwindled. Attacked, too, were long-standing rules on depreciation allowances for tax purposes.

3. A slump in home building. First a shortage of funds for mortgages was blamed. But easier money policies didn't help much. Some high building costs and some saturation of demand may be the trouble.

Other factors contributed to the turnaround or helped to speed it. Auto sales were good late in 1960 but not as high as Detroit expectations. Dealers stocks piled up. Production was cut. Unemployment rose. The auto makers' troubles spread to allied fields.

Consumer nervousness over the business outlook at home and over world tensions led to a slowdown in purchases of some big ticket items, such as appliances. Stock market weakness in the first half of last year played a big part in the uneasiness.

A hard core of unemployment in long depressed areas ate into the health of the over-all economy. It cut purchasing power and raised relief costs.

The Lord of Life and Death

CHRIST'S ASSURANCE THAT HE IS LIFE AND CAN

Scripture—John: 10-11.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
 "THE TITLE of today's lesson contains three great words, Lord, Life and Death," writes
 the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, author of "Peloubet's Select Notes," from which this lesson is taken.

"We must keep focusing our attention upon what these chapters say about Christ and His teaching concerning, and His relationship to, Life and Death."
 "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by Word was brought to Him that His friend, Lazarus, living in Bethany, was ill. He was in the town of Mary and her sister Martha, friends of our Lord, with whom He sometimes stayed.

"When Jesus heard that, He said: This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of Man might be glorified thereby."—John 1:1-4.
 Christ told His disciples that Lazarus slept, and they said,
 "Lord, if he sleeps he shall do well." Jesus meant that he was dead.

When Jesus and His disciples came to Bethany, Lazarus had

 John 10:1-4.

The sheep would not follow a this parable, which His listeners did not understand.

Judge Urges Much Tougher Traffic Laws

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Serious traffic offenses should be punished with mandatory license suspensions and jail sentences, a veteran judge told the Ohio Traffic Court Conference.

Judge Thomas M. Powers, who has served in Akron Municipal Court for 20 years, commented this week that "serious traffic violations are not given the serious consideration nor the severe penalties they deserve."

Among major traffic offenses he listed drunken driving, drag racing and aggravated speeding, negligent death, reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident and driving while the license is suspended or revoked.

Judge Powers placed violators in three categories:

Those who can't drive properly because of physical handicaps such as poor sight or hearing.

Those who don't know traffic laws or how to react in a given situation.

Those who won't observe the law—the drivers who just don't care.

The physically handicapped offender should be re-examined to see if he is qualified for a license, the judge said.

Education such as driver training courses can help the uninformed or the inept driver, he added.

Some 60 judges, attorneys and law enforcement officers are attending the three-day conference which opened Wednesday at the University of Toledo.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has a double load on his back—and maybe a very subtle third one—in trying to convince Congress that not only action but urgent action is needed to pull the economy out of its spin.

One of his handicaps, obvious from the beginning, is the narrow margin of his election victory. A second is the conservative nature of Congress and its traditional, almost lazy, slow way of doing business except in deep emergency.

The fact that he is now in a position of trying to lead a group of men—the members of Congress —among whom he was just one of many not long ago may without its being realized handicap him in getting what he wants.

At 43 Kennedy looks younger.
 He always looked younger than his age from the time in 1947 he first came to Congress and one lobbyist addressed him as if he were a boy.

But behind him Kennedy has 14 years in Congress. In that time, however, he was not in a position of leadership except when acting as captain for some piece of legislation or as chairman of a committee.

In the main he was, like the other 436 members of the House and the 99 members of the Senate, just one among many where the voices of some of those around him, the older men, had more weight than his.

Now in a very real sense he is captain of all of them but still, because of the separation of powers between the presidency and Congress, unable to give orders.

His main instruments are the prestige of his office and his powers of persuasion. It would seem natural if some of the older members of Congress would be less receptive to his urgings than if he were closer to their age.

This in the end may be just a minor factor, if it is a factor at all, in the problems he faces with Congress.

His extraordinarily narrow mar-

 Bricker, Republican candidate for mayor and a second cousin of the one-time U.S. senator from Ohio, has quit his job here because of what he called "unkind pressures" on his employer.

Bricker said Wednesday he quit as sales manager of the Pucci Distributing Co. because "people threatened to take their business from my former employer if he kept me on the job."

People telephoned the threats to Anthony Pucci, operator of the firm, Bricker said.

The candidate said the loss of his job "not only destroys my income, but impedes my campaign because of lack of finances."

gion of victory in the presidential race, as has been pointed out before, does not carry the same overwhelming persuasiveness a landslide victory would have given him starting out.

But Congress, and this goes for members of both parties, for years has been used to rocking along without any feeling, as Kennedy put it, that time and tide were running against us.

There is a certain provincialism in the House—more, perhaps, than in the Senate—where the members, facing election every two years, are apt to think more in terms of the needs of their own district than the one 100 miles away.

Even though the unemployment figures are climbing toward six million—not a pretty spectacle for a nation competing with world communism—Kennedy has a problem making vivid to a House member from a well-fed district the shattering necessities of people from a depressed, unemployed and hungry area.

During an election campaign

the Democrats and Republicans speak and act as if there were profound differences between their political and social philosophies.

These differences tend to blur after the returns are in. For a big part of the Democratic party which talks in liberal terms during a campaign is as conservative as the Republicans. This is particularly true of Southern Democrats.

The result: The dominant force in Congress, no matter which party runs the show, is conservative. And that's what this Congress is, Kennedy's programs so far have been only mildly liberal, mostly middle-road.

Yet, they do call for some changes. But the very definition of conservatism is opposition to change.

So, overcoming conservatism, imposing his leadership at least to the extent of getting action, and convincing Congress his pro-

Tips on Care For Cashmere

Here are tips for prolonging the life of garments made from the luxury fiber, cashmere.

Wash most items instead of dry-cleaning because the laundering agitation renews the softness of the fiber and keeps it fluffy. However, check instructions written on the tag of the garment to be sure of what you should do.

To wash a sweater: Make a pattern tracing the shape on a piece of paper. Submerge in warm or cool water in which the soap has already been dissolved, and soak for about five minutes.

Agitate slightly but avoid rubbing. Rinse without agitation at least twice in cool water. Roll in bath towels and spread on a dry towel. Dry away from the heat. Adjust the sweater to the size and shape of the paper cut-out.

Keep sweaters flat in a drawer to retain their shapes. Hang suits, coats on heavy hangers.

After each wearing air and brush the garment before putting it away.

Wife Preservers

Wonder what left-overs are still edible in your refrigerator? As you store left-overs, mark the jar cap or bowl with name of food and date in grease pencil.

In case you need to be reminded to drink your daily quota of milk, remember that it is a rich source of high quality protein and calcium and other minerals. It is also a good source of riboflavin, vitamin A and other vitamins.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Fur Is Bound To Fly!

DEAR ABBY: I am 62 and Boris is ten years older than I am. We've both been married before. I was widowed and he lost his wife in the divorce court. (In fact he lost two there.) We met when I rented an apartment in his building. He lives across the hall. We were having dinner in his apartment last night, as we have done many times, when I noticed red lipstick on one of his napkins. My hair is red and I use orange lipstick. When I pointed it out to him he made up a fantastic story, which he later confessed was a lie. He finally admitted he had entertained another woman in his apartment. Do you think a man who won't tell the truth unless he's trapped into it would make a good husband?

"TRAPPER"
DEAR "TRAPPER": Not for a woman who is an expert trapper.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I call my sister's home and her 16-year-old "adopted" son answers the telephone I can't tell his voice from his father's. Isn't it natural for me to be suspicious? Or do I just have an evil mind?

SUSPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: You have an evil mind. Adopted children frequently sound, act, and even look like their adoptive parents.

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Saturday night viewers who are accustomed to having their whodunits and westerns satisfactorily tied up at the end of 30 or 60 minutes, may be in for an unnerving experience.

CBS' Show of the Month has preempted "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "Gunsmoke."

The drama, "The Lincoln Murder Case" was written by Dale Wasserman, and is an examination, based on documentary evidence, of many of the unexplained and strange events before and after the shot was fired in the theater.

Wasserman originally was assigned to write a play based on "Web of Conspiracy," by Theodore Roscoe, a historian whose research led him to believe Lincoln's death was part of a conspiracy which included important members of Lincoln's official family. He did not believe, as the accepted version has it, that John Wilkes Booth was a madman who dreamed up the whole idea himself.

Wasserman, after studying the book continued research, ultimately going to Washington to check original source material. Like Roscoe, Wasserman is absolutely convinced a high-up conspiracy was operating.

Wasserman expects that his play will be controversial—in fact he hopes it will be.

"I think people ought to be shaken up every once in a while," he said. "This show just shoots some questions up in the air. And maybe people won't like it. I suspect that most people like to have their legends neatly wrapped and all the ends tied up, and hate having them disturbed or destroyed."

The die is cast and the Dinah Shore Show, after all these years, will leave the NBC Sundaynight lineup next season. (Dinah, however, will appear in an occasional special show on the network.) And it is expected that the Walt Disney Show, moving over from ABC, will take over the hour now occupied by the Shirley Temple Show.

Recommended tonight: Telephone Hour, NBC, 9-10 (Eastern Standard Time) — "Sounds of America," made at Disneyland, with original music, starring Gene Nelson.

Illini Coach Says only OSU Can Beat OSU

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Athletic Director Doug Mills of Illinois says it wouldn't be fair to compare his Illini "Whiz Kids" of 18 years ago with Ohio State's unbeaten basketball powerhouse.

When basketball teams are mentioned, the "Whiz Kids" of Mills, then cage coach, stand among the greatest in collegiate annals. They were unbeaten in winning 12 Big Ten games and the championship—a feat no team has done since in the conference.

Ohio State, however, seems headed for such a record, having a 9-0 mark with five league dates remaining.

"I don't see how Ohio State is going to be stopped," said Mills. "But to try to compare the Buckeyes as a team with the 'Whiz Kids' is impossible, as well as changed so in 18 years. But I think the 'Whiz Kids' were as great in their time as the Buckeyes are now."

"Coach Fred Taylor is handling the Buckeyes beautifully. If Taylor wanted to, Jerry Lucas could average 50 points a game. But Taylor knows that if he set up Lucas constantly, the Buckeyes would lose some games. That's where he's smart. He's got a fistful of cards and he plays 'em like a poker hand."

"It looks as if the only way the Buckeyes will be beaten is by themselves," Mills continued. "And that could happen right here in Champaign March 11. They undoubtedly will have the Big Ten title stowed away by then and might be a bit complacent, and our sophomores might just get hot. That's the only way."

Fish-Shaped Church
SAC CITY, Iowa (AP) — The new St. Mary's Catholic Church and parish center at Sac City is shaped like a fish, an ancient Christian symbol.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. E. Tolan reports that some wags are referring to it as "the holy mackerel church."

Admission Price To Parks Opposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle frowns on any proposals to charge admission to state parks as a means of helping to finance expansion of Ohio's water management and recreation program.

And Herbert B. Eagon, director of the Department of Natural Resources, said today he has no intention of proposing any such charges now.

"The people who used these parks are least able to pay," DiSalle remarked about the suggestion. "Those who have boats and use cabins can afford the reasonable charges made."

Ohio Health Aides Plan Checkup on Pollution of Air

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Health officials plan a closer look in the next few months at that air you breathe.

"We are requisitioning equipment for sampling stations now," says H. Gardner Bourne, assistant chief (for engineering) of the Ohio Division of Industrial Hygiene.

"We hope to have about 40 stations and to set them up this year. They require minimum attention and we'll probably count on local health departments to change filters and collect samples."

The idea, Bourne says, is to determine "what level of air pollution you can anticipate in communities of different sizes — to determine baselines."

Then, the engineer says, health officials can determine to what extent a particular industry or condition is polluting the air in a community.

Unfortunately, the state has been limited in what it can do about air pollution, and Bourne admits it. One of the big problems is getting experienced engineers and chemists at salaries the state health department (of which the industrial hygiene division is a part) can afford.

The Legislature passed an air pollution act in 1957, but didn't make any money available. Two years later, legislators appropriated $190,000.

McElroy Talks To Rotarians

Plugging his campaign against consumer frauds, Attorney General of Ohio Mark McElroy yesterday spoke to the Circleville Rotary Club.

He told the group that consumer frauds mean "a loss to Ohio citizens of over $300 million every year."

He described the fake medicine racket, bait and switch selling techniques, the knitting machine racket, deceptive advertising, especially on television.

McElroy said that Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Florida and California have taken giant steps to combat this menace. He pledged the resources of his department to develop steps in Ohio to halt consumer frauds in the Buckeye state.

Medics Urged To Avoid Duplication of Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—President Charles Y. Lazarus of F & R Lazarus & Co., Columbus, called Thursday night on the medical fraternity to do more thoughtful planning to coordinate funds in the cure and prevention of major diseases. Proper coordination, he told the 10th annual luncheon of the Franklin County United Appeal, would prevent duplication and competition for the public's dollar.

Hamilton Asked To Aid In Highway Project

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Highway Director Everett S. Preston told Hamilton city officials Thursday that if they will push the plans and help in acquiring rights of way, the new six-lane bridge over the Great Miami River can be advanced. Construction originally was set for 1963. The proposed bridge would connect Ohio 128 and Neilan Blvd. just south of the main business area in Hamilton.

Business Briefs

Despite a new high in sales volume of $245,561,634, G. C. Murphy Company 1960 earnings declined.

Sales increases came primarily from new stores, but were not substantial enough during the last six months to offset increased costs, according to W. C. Shaw, chairman of the board, and J. S. Mack, President. Earnings per share were $3.46 compared with $4.44 in 1959.

During the year 16 stores were opened, four were purchased, and one was closed, making a total of 437 in operation at year end against 418 the preceding year.

Jaycees Tour CCA

Forty-four members and guests of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce last night toured the local plant of Container Corporation of America.

They met earlier for a dinner at the Continental Restaurant.

The site of Washington, D. C., as capital of the United States was chosen by George Washington.
